

Would you like to participate in an anonymous survey about new forms of teaching and the use of digital tools in education at the Faculty of Social Sciences?

This is an invitation to participate in a research project where the purpose is to map cultural conditions that promote or inhibit teaching innovation at the SV faculty at UiO. In this document, we provide you with information about the aims of the project and what participation will mean for you.

Who is responsible for the research project?

The project owner for this research project is EILIN Coordinator Siri Marie Aamodt, at UiO Faculty of Social Sciences. The research project is part of the course SVPRO4000, and is carried out by a group of six master's students at the Department of Sociology and Human Geography.

Why are you being asked to participate?

You are being asked to participate because we want to investigate how faculty at the SV faculty experience the scope for teaching innovation within the organization.

What does participation mean for you?

By participating in the research project, you will fill out an anonymous online survey through UiO Nettskjema. The survey takes approx. 5 minutes to complete. The survey must be completed by 10 March - week 10.

What happens to your personal data when the research project ends?

No personal data will be collected during the survey.

Questions about the research project:

Any questions regarding the research project can be forwarded to Simen Murud at simenmur@student.sv.uio.no