

Exam and grading guidelines KIN4340 spring 2020

Formal requirements

The paper has to have a title and include an introduction, 2-4 sections with titles, a conclusion, and a consistent list of references.

Grading guidelines

The following aspects of the paper will be important for the final assessment and grading:

- use of primary sources in Chinese relevant to the topic of your paper
- ability to present your discussion in a clear and consistent way
- ability to refer to and engage with the relevant secondary literature
- structure of text (introduction, conclusion, logical/understandable structure of sections and arguments)
- standardized and consistent system of references (in text as well as in final list of literature)
- English language (is the text flawed by major grammatical or other errors that make it difficult understand)
- ability to stick to the required length and format
