The course consists of fourteen two-hour seminars.

The course is assessed via a four-hour, open-book home exam.

Grading Criteria

Essays will be marked holistically, with no specific percentage of marks for any one aspect. Instead, the marker will be making an overall judgement of the quality of the piece of work as a whole. Weaknesses in one area of the criteria may be compensated for by particular skill in another, and vice versa.

Students are not expected to make extensive use of sources and should instead draw on their own understanding of the course content and reading. However, where sources have been used, this should be clearly indicated.

Good:

1. Work at the highest levels will assert an argument, through the use of a thesis statement which is argumentative (i.e. it could also be disputed), specific (it is not overly general or vague) and substantiated (there is some evidence to support it).
2. The argument is delivered through the use of a clear, logical essay structure. The student considers the flow of the argument from paragraph to paragraph and sustains the argument throughout. The various points made are all relevant to the topic and argument under consideration in the essay, and that relevance is made explicitly clear.
3. The essay engages in detailed analysis, considering the literary strategies that can be discerned in the texts considered, and relating these strategies to the essay's overall argument. The essay demonstrates detailed awareness of the critical and/or historical contexts to the texts considered and to the specific topic under consideration.
4. The essay is written in formal English of a high standard, with no mistakes of grammar or spelling. It adopts an objective, but persuasive academic tone which reinforces the argument that the student is making.

Average:

1. Includes an argument, which is for the most part sustained throughout.
2. The essay adopts a clear structure and the points made are relevant to the topic under consideration throughout.
3. The essay engages in detailed analysis, and demonstrates some knowledge of the critical or historical context.
4. The essay is written for the most part in correct English, with only very minor mistakes of grammar or spelling.

Poor:

1. The student's argument is excessively general or lacks substantiating evidence.
2. The structure lacks logic, and the points made are occasionally irrelevant to the topic and argument under consideration.
3. The essay engages in some analysis, but has a slight tendency to simply repeat details of plot. The essay demonstrates some knowledge of the critical or historical context.
4. There are errors in grammar and spelling, though these do not prevent understanding of the essay text.

Unacceptable:

1. The essay lacks an argument.
2. The structure is illogical and confusing. The points made lack relevance to the topic under consideration.
3. The essay lacks analysis, simply retelling the story of the plays under consideration. The essay demonstrates no knowledge of the critical and historical context.
4. The essay is poorly written with numerous errors of grammar and spelling.
