

Final home exam, autumn 2016

KRIM4960 Green criminology

Date of exam: 11 November at 13:00 to 18 November at 13:00

Choose one of the following two topics:

1) Choose one of the following environmental harms from the syllabus: Wildlife trafficking, pollution, electronic waste, climate change, deforestation. Use your syllabus to briefly contextualize the harm and describe its relevant traits, and to discuss how this harm relates to issues of rights and justice (environmental, ecological, - or species). Departing from that exploration, explain what may be the shortcomings of this perspective in analysing the chosen issue.

2) Choose one of the following environmental harms from the syllabus: Wildlife trafficking, pollution, electronic waste, climate change, deforestation. Use your syllabus to briefly contextualize and describe its relevant traits, and to discuss possible approaches to reduce/end this harm, including the advantages and disadvantages of criminalisation of factors leading to this harm

The question can be answered in English or Norwegian.

Size: Maximum 4000 words (roughly 10 pages). Front page, contents page (optional) and bibliography are not included. If footnotes are used in the text (at the bottom of each page), they are included in the 4000 word limit.

Cheating: Any exam at the University of Oslo is being checked for both correct word count and incidents of cheating. The text recognition software Ephorus will be used to find cases of plagiarism. Failure to cite sources or highlight quotes in any assignments that are handed in is considered cheating. You must cite the source if you obtain data, reasoning and arguments from the literature, syllabus, lecture notes, web pages, other students' papers or your own previously submitted papers. Short or long pieces of text quoted verbatim from other sources must be italicised so that it is obvious that it is a quote.

Submit your exam: The essays shall be handed in electronically in Inpera. Exams at the University of Oslo are anonymous. Instead of your name, write your four-digit candidate number found in StudentWeb.
