How to collaborate productively – ground rules for talk (Mercer and Wegerif, 1999):

1. Everyone should have a chance to talk
2. Everyone's ideas should be carefully considered
3. Each member of a group should be asked: what do you think? And why do you think that?
4. Look and listen to the person talking
5. After discussion, the group should agree on a group idea.
